

Executive Employees from Roosevelt through Bush

Selected Offices within the EOP 2001*

- | | |
|--|---|
| • Office of Management and Budget | • Council on Environmental Quality |
| • Council of Economic Advisers | • Office of National AIDS Policy |
| • National Security Council | • Office of Administration |
| • Office of National Drug Control Policy | • Office of Science and Technology Policy |
| • National Economic Council | • President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board |
| • United States Trade Representative | • Office of Homeland Security |

* The offices in the EOP are constantly changing; they are not a fixed or mandated group.

Sources: Ragsdale, Vital Statistics on the Presidency: Washington to Clinton (Washington, D.C.: CQ Inc., 1995); Washington Information Directory 1996-1997 (Washington, D.C.: CQ Inc., 1996); Office of Management and Budget, 2001.

Critical Thinking

The number of executive office employees reached its peak in the early 1970s. Why do you think this number dropped after 1974?